There was an Old Man of Voghera
 Who always drank milk and barbera
 He stepped in the rue
 Shouting out 'Cheecha-boo'
 That bottled Old Man of Voghera
(Michele)

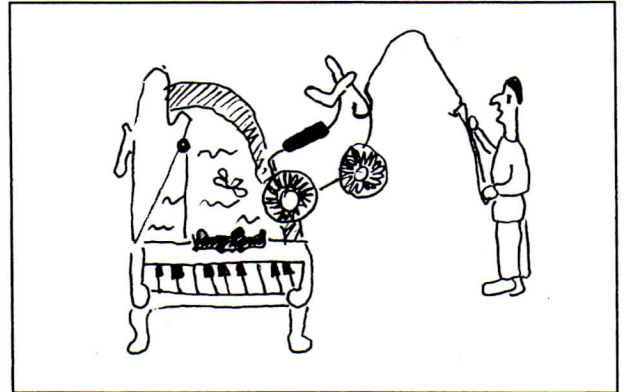

There was an Old Man of Milan
 Who used to drink beer from a can
 He laughed all the time
 Drinking beer and some wine
 This silly drunk man of Milan
(Vanessa)

There was A Young Person from Main
 Who was always losing her brain
 She lived on the road
 Then she went abroad
 That improbable Person from Main.
(Martina C.)

There was an Old Man with two dogs
 Who lived in a hut with some frogs
 He swam in a pool
 So he looked very cool
 That athletic Old Man with two dogs
(Alessandra B.)

There was an Old Person of Wells
 Whose pig was exchanged for two bells
 He sat in his chair
 And thought 'That's not fair'
 That silly Old Person of Wells
(Laura)

There was a Young Girl of Chicago
 Who was always eating Asiago
 She melted it neat
 With blueberries and meat
 That crazy Young Girl of Chicago
(Silvia)

There was a Nice Lady of Pisa
 Who wanted to be Mona Lisa
 She cried all day long
 Baa-daa-ding Baa-daa-dong
 This crazy Nice Lady of Pisa
(Elena B.)

There was an Old Lady of York
 Whose son was the shape of a fork
 She used him to eat
 Her honey and meat
 That forky Old Lady of York
(Valentina C.)

There was an Old Lady of Wells
 Whose body was covered in bells
 She ran everywhere
 Screaming 'Why am I fair?'
 This ringing Old Lady of Wells
(Magda)

There was a Young Girl from Japan
 Who never gave up Peter Pan
 She thought about him
 While having her tea
 That childish Young Girl from Japan
(Lisa)

There was an Old Man of Milano
 Who wanted to fish in a piano
 He threw in some water
 And fished a blue scooter
 That lucky Old Man of Milano
(Valentina N.)
